Dressage Behind the Scenes

In his new book, Dressage Dreams, FEI "O" judge Stephen Clarke features top riders and trainers describing the Grand Prix movements, giving personal anecdotes and more. It highlights the harmony of Debbie McDonald and Brentina, Lisa Wilcox and Relevant's piaffe, Edward Gal and Totilas' extended walk and dressage's top ponies. Available at HorseBooksEtc.com and a selection of tack shops throughout the United States.

Cozy Rider Boots

To keep your feet warm this winter, Mountain Horse has created Cozy Rider Boots with insulating faux fur, elastic stretch gore panels and non-dirt collecting tread zones in an effort to improve stirrup contact. The waxed nubuck leather is treated with water repellent Mountain Horse Leather Protector. Available in black or brown, the boots retail for $99.95. For more information, visit mountainhorse.se.

Cold Weather Breeches

Kerrits Sit Tight-N-Warm Full-Seat Breeches have merged their four-way stretch design with a combination of Polartec® Wind Pro® and fleece-lined GripStretch™ full seat to keep you tight in the tack during cold weather, while providing extra warmth. The matte finish of the breech also helps shed water and block wind. Available in black, stone or tan, they retail for $129. To learn more, visit kerrits.com.

Winter Warming Gear

TechNiche International has introduced a new line of heating products for the equestrian market. Using their ThermaFur™ air-activated heating system, the fleece garments and accessories have pockets on the inside that house air-activated warmers. The warmers come in various sizes—body warmers, mini/hand warmers and toe warmers—and can be used in ThermaFur vests, scarves, helmet liners and more.
